Kissinger Flies To Damascus

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flies to Damascus today, and a senior aide reported that Syrian President Hafez Assad appears "in a frame of mind" to negotiate a troop disengagement agreement with Israel.

The official said President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia had influenced the Syrian leader. But the informant cautioned that it would take a miracle for Kissinger to work out an entire disengagement plan during his visit to the Middle East this week.

An Israeli-Syrian disengagement probably would bring a resumption of the Middle East peace talks in Geneva. President Nixon said at his news conference Monday night that the Arab oil embargo against the United States and efforts to arrange an Arab-Israeli peace are "not directly linked."

But he added that "what happens in one area has an effect on the other."

Kissinger flew to London Monday to talk with the British foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, about the Middle East, the energy crisis and the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

It's the American secretary's fourth trip to the Middle East since the October war.

Kissinger will spend Tuesday in Damascus and go to Israel on Wednesday. Aides said he did not intend to repeat the shuttle diplomacy that produced the Israeli-Egyptian disengagement agreement last month. But they said he might return once to Damascus with any proposals the Israelis made.

Kissinger was reported confident that Assad would supply the list of approximately 80 Israeli prisoners of war held by Syria which Israel has demanded before it will start disengagement negotiations.

Colder Air Pushes Into East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonable cold gripped much of the East today, and northerly winds pushed below-freezing temperatures south as far as central Florida.

Overnight, the mercury dipped to the teens well into Georgia.

Snow flurries along the Atlantic Coast from Maryland to southern New England and inland through the Appalachians, eastern Pennsylvania and southern New York were all that remained of a winter storm that swept through the Northeast Monday.

Cold-wave conditions prevailed in North Carolina during the night.

Rain falling along the central and northern Pacific Coast was expected to move east, turning to snow over the northern Rockies.

Most of the nation outside the Northwest, the East and South enjoyed fair skies and a warming trend.

Testimony Plan Rejected By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he won't testify before the Watergate grand jury but he would be willing to work out a way to tell his side of the story to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"The special prosecutor transmitted the request that I testify before the grand jury and on constitutional grounds I respectfully declined to do so," the President told a news conference Monday night.

"I did offer, of course, to respond to an interrogatory that the special prosecutor might want to submit or to meet with him personally to answer questions and he indicated that he did not want to proceed in that way," Nixon said.

Jaworski had no immediate comment Monday night.

But it was clear that if the prosecutor pursued the demand for an historic presidential appearance before a grand jury, it could precipitate a confrontation that would dwarf the legal battles over access to White House tapes.

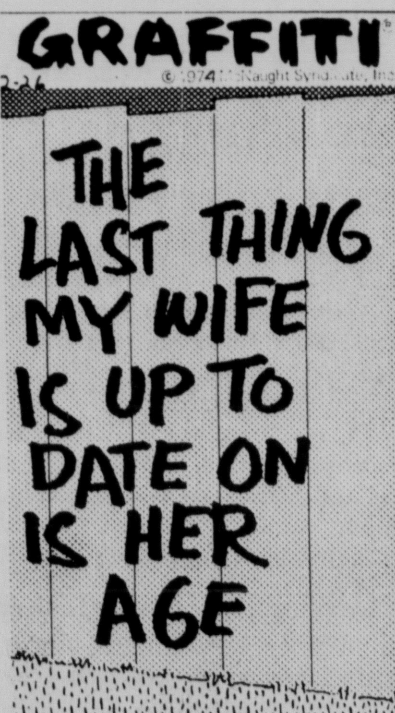

Never before in American history has a president been asked to testify before a grand jury.

Nixon already has been asked to appear as a witness at the California trial of former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman on state charges stemming from the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The President declined a request that he appear but has taken no position on whether or not he would respond to written questions. A District of Columbia judge has scheduled legal arguments for March on the order summoning Nixon to California for the Ehrlichman trial.

Legal experts have said they doubted it would be possible to force a President to travel across the country to testify at a trial.

Whether that would apply to an appearance at a proceeding in Washington was unclear.

Nixon Doesn't See Impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has declared "I do not expect to be impeached" and repeated he will not resign in a wide-ranging news conference in which he also said the chances for gasoline rationing were less than 50-50.

Nixon discussed Watergate, the energy crisis, his income taxes and other subjects in a 38-minute news conference Monday night, his first in four months.

The President also disclosed during the nationally broadcast session that he had been asked to testify before a Watergate grand jury but "respectfully declined to do so" on constitutional grounds.

In other high points Nixon also said:

—He expects waiting lines at service stations to become shorter by spring and summer but said "the price of gasoline is not going down until more supplies of gasoline come into the country."

—"I, of course, will be glad to pay the tax" if the SenateHouse committee on internal revenue taxation should decide that he should not have claimed a deduction for the gift to the government of his vice presidential papers because documents bestowing them were not filed prior to repeal of a tax provision permitting such deductions.

—The United States will pursue detente with the Soviet Union, and Nixon admires the courage of exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn. He said that in past years of confrontation Solzhenitsyn rather than being exiled to Western Europe, "would have been sent to Siberia or probably worse."

—"I believe that we will bring inflation under control as the year goes on, but I would not underestimate the problem. We are going to continue to fight it."

He also said that efforts to arrange a Middle East peace could be hampered if the Arabs fail to end their oil embargo against the United States. But he followed this up with the assertion that he believed the Arabs will lift the embargo.

Turning to gasoline rationing, Nixon said "there is a much better than even chance" that the country can avoid rationing, and he gave the credit for this to conservation measures undertaken by the American people.

On Watergate, Nixon was asked whether it might not be in the best interest of the country to have a full impeachment trial in the Senate.

The President responded that it is his belief the House will not vote for impeachment proceedings and added, "I do not expect to be impeached."

The first question put to him dealt with the extent to which he will cooperate in providing materials for the House Judiciary Committee currently considering impeachment.

Crisis Down To 'Problem'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has downgraded the energy crisis to a "serious problem" and predicted shorter gasoline lines for Americans by spring and an end to the Arab oil embargo.

While citing improved odds against gasoline rationing, Nixon pledged to veto the emergency energy bill now before Congress if it comes to him containing the proposed oil-price rollback.

Such a measure would increase the fuel shortage and require "rationing all over the country," Nixon declared in his nationally broadcast news conference Monday night.

He also said the administration would bring inflation under control by increasing food and fuel supplies, rather than controlling prices, and again vowed to keep the economy from sinking into recession this year.

At several points in the news conference, Nixon referred to the fuel shortage not as a crisis, but as a problem.

"Looking to the future, I believe we can say now that while the crisis has been passed, the problem remains," he said. "It is a serious problem, but it is one that can be dealt with..."

The President gave no date when he thought the embargo would be lifted, but he said he believes it is in the best interests of the Arab nations to begin U.S. oil shipments again.

He said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East trip to get a troop disengagement on the Syrian front will have a positive effect in getting the embargo lifted.

"By the same token, if the embargo is not lifted, it will naturally slow down the efforts that we are making on the peace front," Nixon said.

Nixon opened the news conference with a statement on the energy crisis, saying that the home fuel oil shortage has been overcome and the nation's factories kept running despite the shortage.

But he said the major problem remaining is gasoline, noting he had seen the long lines "as I have driven around in the Miami area and also in the Washington area."

As a result of federal efforts to increase the flow of gasoline and dampen consumption, "... I now believe confidently that there is a much better than even chance that there will be no need for gas rationing in the United States," he said.

Nixon said the energy bill, an omnibus measure that would give the administration broad powers, would be vetoed because he said it only manages the shortage rather than deal with the real problem of increasing supplies.

A price rollback would be "immediately popular," he said, but would eventually increase the gasoline lines and lead to rationing.

Nixon urged Congress to approve legislation to tax windfall profits of oil companies, deregulate natural gas prices, and allow amendments to environmental laws permitting greater use of coal as a fuel.

No Word In Hearst Kidnaping

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — A fourth week of anguished waiting has started for the family of kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

"There is nothing to do and it is frustrating, just waiting" said Jay Bosworth, son-in-law of Miss Hearst's father, newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst. "We feel she is still alive and healthy."

The Hearst family is awaiting an answer from the terrorist group which abducted Miss Hearst, the Symbionese Liberation Army, to an offer of another $4 million in food in exchange for the release of the 20-year-old University of California coed.

Hearst and a Hearst family foundation have already made $2 million in food for California's needy available.

The terrorists have threatened to kill Miss Hearst if an attempt is made to rescue her.

The SLA said it abducted her Feb. 4 because Hearst is a "corporate enemy of the people." It said she would be held as a "prisoner of war" until SLA demands for food for the needy and other demands not yet specified are met.

The SLA had originally asked for the distribution of $70 of free food for each of California's needy, a program which state officials said would cost some $400 million. The SLA said the food plan was a prerequisite to negotiations for Miss Hearst's release.

Hearst said he could not meet such a demand and went ahead with a plan for the $2 million giveaway.

But the SLA said $2 million wouldn't be enough and demanded that Hearst put another $4 million into the food plan. The terrorists said failure to comply would mean a cutoff in communication.

The Hearst Corp. agreed to put up $2 million if Miss Hearst is freed immediately, plus another $2 million in January 1975.

Ransom Demand Of Food For Painting Turned Down

LONDON (AP) — A top official of the London municipal government said today that it would not meet a telephoned demand for $1.15 million worth of food to ransom the Vermeer painting stolen from a suburban museum.

A telephone caller with a West Indian accent told a newspaper Monday night that the 17th century Dutch masterpiece "The Guitar Player" would be destroyed unless food worth half a million pounds — $1.15 million — is distributed within 14 days to the poor on the Caribbean island of Grenada.

Illyd Harrington, deputy leader of the Greater London Council, said: "If anyone wants to talk, they have to approach us directly at the council. But I am not offering half a million to anyone. We haven't got it. We are operating on a shoestring. We are not being blackmailed into any situation."

The value of the painting, one of less than 30 by Jan Vermeer that are known to exist, has been estimated as high as $4.4 million, but it is believed that it was not insured. It was stolen Saturday night from Kenwood House in suburban Hampstead.

Scotland Yard said it was treating the ransom demand as authentic and believed the Patricia Hearst kidnaping inspired the art theft. Detectives pointed out that the theft occurred shortly after television films showed food distribution in California in response to the demands of Miss Hearst's kidnapers, the Symbionese Liberation Army.

The frame of the Vermeer was found Monday in bushes half a mile from Kenwood House. One corner had been broken off and the glass smashed, raising fears that the painting itself could have been damaged.

The thieves broke through a barred, shuttered window at Kenwood House with a sledgehammer after padlocking the front doors from the outside to delay any attempt by the guards to chase them. Guards said the raid took less than a minute.

Grenada, an island group with more than 100,000 people, gained independence from Britain earlier this month amid considerable turmoil. Some of the Grenadians fled to other islands, saying they feared persecution by Prime Minister Eric Gairy's secret police.

State Speed Limit Cut Faces Final Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators planned to vote today on a House-approved 55 miles per hour speed limit while other energy legislation headed into a new Senate subcommittee.

The immediately-effective speed limit bill, which could take effect before the week is out, is needed prior to March 3 to avoid state loss of about $170 million in federal highway funds. It would be effective upon signing by Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee which is considering three energy bills, said Monday he plans to put those into a subcommittee.

The senator said he probably will name himself chairman and appoint an as yet undetermined number of other senators to the panel.

In addition, the Hamilton County lawmaker said three members of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Conservation, and Environment will sit on the subcommittee as non-voting members. That committee is involved because of environmental aspects of the proposed legislation, he said.

Maloney said Sens. Thomas A. Van

Meter, R-18 Ashland, Richard G. Reichel, R-29 Massillon, and Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, have been designated as the non-voting members of the subcommittee.

The subcommittee will consider the governor's emergency energy bill, a Republican alternative to that measure — introduced by Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Columbus — and a bill already passed by the House which would beef up the powers of the Public Utilities Commission to deal with energy problems.

Maloney said he has discussed with Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, chairman of the House Select Committee on Energy, the possibility of joint meetings of energy subcommittees of the House and Senate. "He seemed friendly toward the idea," Maloney said.

Riffe last week named a subcommittee of the select committee to continue consideration of Gilligan's bill, criticized by some members of both parties because of broad powers it would vest in a proposed super energy board of seven named by the governor.

Named to the House subcommittee were Reps. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo; Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights; Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown; Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, and Thomas N. Kindness, R-58 Hamilton.

At its 1:30 p.m. floor session, the House planned to vote today on a bill to strengthen laws against child abuse. Among other things, it would require all Ohioans to report cases of child abuse and could result in a $250 fine and up to 30 days in jail for withholding such information.

In other business, Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, said he plans to introduce a bill this week making kidnaping in Ohio punishable by the death penalty in the state's new criminal code. Under present law, the maximum penalty is seven years and a $10,000 fine, unless the kidnap victim is killed, Mottl said.

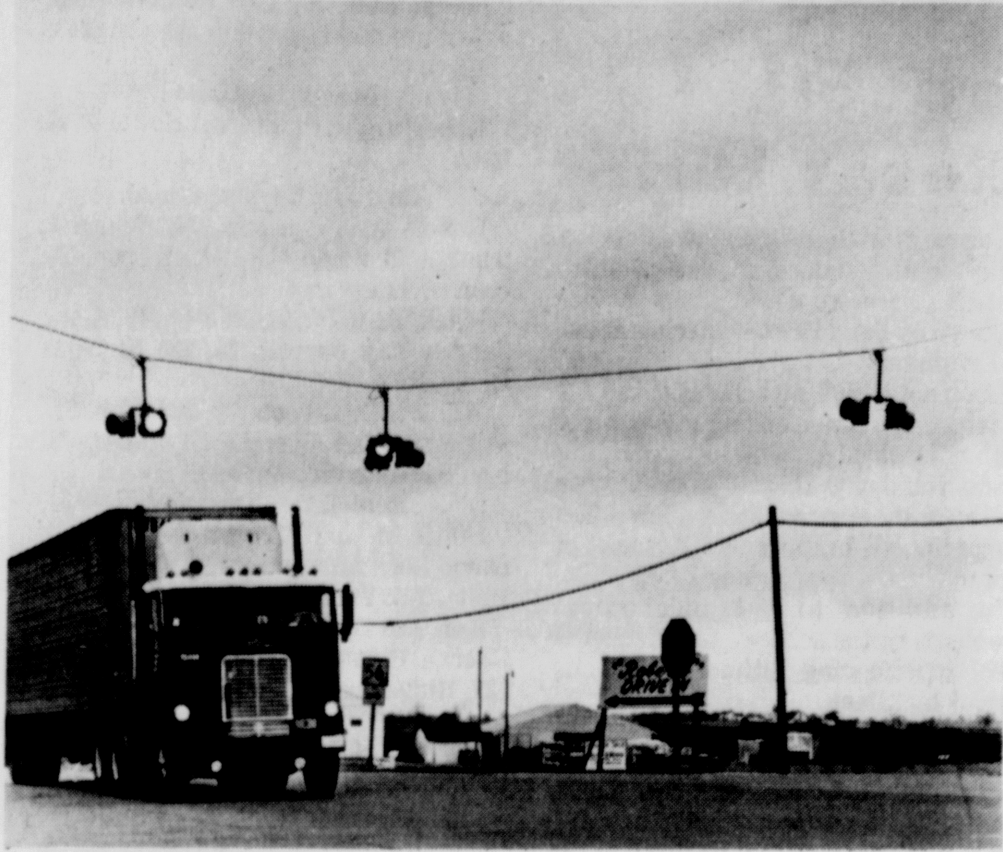

He said he wanted to introduce the bill in an effort to prevent political kidnapings in Ohio such as the Hearst abduction in California and a more recent one involving an Atlanta, Ga. newspaper editor.

Today's prices on the Big Board included Continental Copper & Steel, down 1/2 at 9 3/4; American Smelting & Refining, unchanged at 26; Beneficial Corp., down 3/4 at 22, and Norton Simon, up 1/4 at 13 3/4.

Gold stocks showed renewed strength, reflecting the continued record-breaking surge of gold prices in European markets. Homestake was up 1 1/2 to 93 3/4, and on the American Stock Exchange, Pato Consolidated Gold Dredging rose 1/2 to 14 1/2.

Commissioners Discuss Senior Citizens Funds

Pickaway County Commissioners Wayne Hines, Robert Liston and Dick T. Tootle Monday met with representatives of the Senior Citizens Center to discuss financing and facilities.

The Senior Citizens Center is presently located at 430 Lancaster Pike. The commissioners indicated arrangements could be made for them to occupy the Ankrom Building on the Pickaway County Fairgrounds after it is vacated by the workshop for the mentally retarded.

The commissioners also noted they have budgeted $5,600 for the Senior Citizens and are awaiting a written decision by Prosecutor Richard Gerhardt on how the money may be disbursed to the organization.

Representing the Senior Citizens were Russ Palm, William Smith and Twyla Lorentz and attorney Charles Wilburn.

In other action Monday commissioners declared the week of March 3 as 4-H Week in the county.

A co-insurance plan with seven local agents was approved. The local agents are: Lawrence Johnson, Hummel and Plum, E. F. (Doc) Owens, Kraft and Black, L. E. Cook and Son, Newman Insurance Agency, Percy May. The plan insures the courthouse at $800,000 and costs $961 for a three year period.

2 Young Boys Leave Home For Trip To Indian Country

HAVRE, Mont. (AP) — Two young Wisconsin brothers set off from home with Indian headdresses, a tom tom, a homemade spear, bow and arrows and about 60 cents.

Douglas and William Morgan, 10 and 9, of Milwaukee told their parents in a note they were heading for Indian country to find an Indian tribe which would adopt them.

The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Plonka, climbed aboard an Amtrak train without tickets Sunday morning and traveled to Minneapolis, unhindered by conductors.

At Minneapolis they changed trains, getting on a Burlington Northern passenger train en route to Seattle, Wash.

They overshot Sioux Indian country in South Dakota, their apparent destination, and wound up instead at Havre, Blackfeet Indian territory.

Their westward journey ended here Monday after Burlington Northern conductor Lee M. Grant of Havre noticed the boys in a domed passenger car and asked them where their parents were.

The truth came out and the Morgan brothers — their mother is remarried — were given over to juvenile authorities to await the 1,300-mile trip home.

What awaits them when they return?

"They already know," Mrs. Plonka told newsmen in Milwaukee. "They said to me, 'I suppose we're going to get a spanking.' And I said, 'Well, do you suppose you should get a pat on the back?'"

Big Bitish Trade Deficit Becomes Hot Election Issue

LONDON (AP) — Britain's three major political parties each tried today to turn a record trade deficit into a vote-getting issue in the general election Thursday.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government announced that imports exceeded exports in January by 383 million pounds, or $880.9 million. Heath said this biggest trade deficit in British history shows the gravity of the national crisis and the need for his tough program to control wages and prices.

"The figures show that the situation is too grave for Labor or Liberals to handle," he said.

But Labor party leader Harold Wilson said the figures were more evidence that "on every count the handling of the nation's economy by the Conservative government has been a disaster." Although he again predicted victory for his forces, he told them: "Let no one underestimate the grim situation we shall be taking over."

Jeremy Thorpe, whose third-place Liberals hope to capture the balance of power between the two major parties, said the trade figures were "the writing on the wall" for Heath. He warned that "Britain faces a crisis of immense proportions."

The previous record deficit was 364 million pounds last October. Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber blamed about half of the January deficit on the increased cost of Middle East oil, and the government said the nation needs massive foreign credit to stay solvent.

The political effect of the deficit was unclear. A deficit less than a twelfth the size of the January figure was widely credited with ousting Labor and Wilson in 1970. The Laborites were ahead then in all but one of the opinion polls; this time the polls are unanimous in giving the Conservatives the lead.

The latest poll, taken for the Daily Mail, showed the Liberals rising fast at the expense of both major parties. The Liberals were the choice of 22 per cent, up from 16.9 per cent five days ago, while the Conservatives dropped from 43.4 to 40.5 and Labor from 37.8 to 35.5.

Wellston School Dispute Hearing Slated March 4

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — A March 4 hearing has been scheduled in Jackson County Common Pleas Court on a taxpayers suit to block Ralph Crabtree from functioning as business manager of the Wellston School System.

Crabtree was a key figure in a recent strike by teachers and administrators at Wellston schools. The walkout, prompted by the Wellston School Board's decision not to rehire six administrators, ended last week.

Crabtree is a former school board member.

The taxpayers' suit was filed Friday by William Starkey with the backing of the Wellston Citizens Committee for Better Education.

Old Naval Mine Proves Deadly

MIAMI (AP) — A rusty old naval mine used as salty decor at a popular seafood restaurant blew a crater six feet deep and 20 feet wide at the county's bomb disposal dump, officials say.

A customer at Monty's Conch Raw Bar kicked the four-foot thick sphere last week and three chunks fell out, police said Monday.

Police bomb expert Newton Porter said the 90-pound chunks were an explosive similar to TNT and he had it gently removed to the bomb dump where it was detonated.

"We would still be down there picking up the pieces" if the mine had gone off at the restaurant, he added.

Vo School Continues Bid Awards

Bid awards in the amount of $106,385.36 were made at the meeting Monday night of the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School Board. Bids were awarded for the resource center and library materials in the amount of $14,799; agriculture equipment, $15,958.58; horticulture equipment on a partial order, $7,175.09.

The board also purchased recommended textbooks in the amount of $6,229.10. The textbooks purchase was on a separate order from the equipment.

A lengthy discussion of the water supply problem was held and the whole situation reviewed. A meeting with the architect and engineer is scheduled for Friday to take a closer look at the possibility of setting up a water supply system on the school grounds. The water in this case would come from a well system.

Board members and the architect were optimistic concerning this route in supplying the water for the school. Most of the rural schools and industries in the area are furnished water supplies by well systems. In these cases, the wells have proven very satisfactory.

Price Changes Counterbalance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office has approved counterbalancing price shifts involving a one-cent hike in the wholesale price of gasoline and a two-cent price decrease for middle distillate fuel oil.

An FEO spokesman said Monday the price adjustments, reversing increases and decreases authorized last December, would not affect refinery profits significantly because the shifts would just about cancel each other.

The FEO said the changes would appear in price adjustments allowed on March 1 and would begin to affect prices to consumers a few days later.

Furnace Trouble Closes LEHS

Logan Elm High School was closed today while boilers in the heating system were repaired it was announced by John Henn, superintendent of LE district.

Henn noted that all schools in the LE district were experiencing mechanical problems due to lack of operating funds. Henn said that all preventative maintenance programs had been discontinued because of a lack of money.

In addition to the mechanical problems at the schools, the district is also experiencing difficulty with its school bus fleet.

Seven buses used by the district are either 10 years old or have over 100,000 miles. Since September, five buses have had new motors, a costly item for the budget Henn stated. Because of the condition of the fleet, many bus routes have been running late or have not been run at all he stated.

The Logan Elm Board of Education has placed a 5-mill levy on the ballot for the May Primary, which Henn says is necessary for the continued operation of the school system.

Jury Seated To Decide Civil Suit

A jury of eight and three alternates were selected late Monday afternoon to decide a civil case in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. Brown and Kerr, Inc. of Evanston, Ill. has filed a suit against the Reynolds Metals Company, Richmond, Ind. and the Lathrop Company, Toledo. The Lathrop Company had signed the building contract and had then subcontracted the roof to Brown and Kerr. Reynolds Metals, claiming the roof was defective, withheld payment of the sum from the Lathrop Company who in turn did not pay the roofing company.

Defendants, Reynolds Metals and the Lathrop Company, have each filed a counterclaim for damages against the plaintiff and seek $325,000 in their suit.

Jurors seated to decide the case are Robert D. Scherer, William T. Sharrett, Charles W. Rittinger, Harold G. Reed, Roy C. Osborn, Doris Reichelderfer, Delores M. Lemley and Thomas Royster Jr. Three alternates were selected, Jimmy Lee Mowery, Helen Strous and Robert C. Downey.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today as prices continued their drifting trend of Monday.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down close to a point, but gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said some investors were disappointed that President Nixon's remarks at a televised press conference Monday night hadn't given any firm indication of when the Arab oil embargo might be relaxed or ended.

Today's prices on the Big Board included Continental Copper & Steel, down 1/2 at 9 3/4; American Smelting & Refining, unchanged at 26; Beneficial Corp., down 3/4 at 22, and Norton Simon, up 1/4 at 13 3/4.

Gold stocks showed renewed strength, reflecting the continued record-breaking surge of gold prices in European markets. Homestake was up 1 1/2 to 93 1/2, and on the American Stock Exchange, Pato Consolidated Gold Dredging rose 1/2 to 14 1/2.

power between the two major parties, said the trade figures were "the writing on the wall" for Heath. He warned that "Britain faces a crisis of immense proportions."

The previous record deficit was 364 million pounds last October. Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber blamed about half of the January deficit on the increased cost of Middle East oil, and the government said the nation needs massive foreign credit to stay solvent.

The political effect of the deficit was unclear. A deficit less than a twelfth the size of the January figure was widely credited with ousting Labor and Wilson in 1970. The Laborites were ahead then in all but one of the opinion polls; this time the polls are unanimous in giving the Conservatives the lead.

The latest poll, taken for the Daily Mail, showed the Liberals rising fast at the expense of both major parties. The Liberals were the choice of 22 per cent, up from 16.9 per cent five days ago, while the Conservatives dropped from 43.4 to 40.5 and Labor from 37.8 to 35.5.

Wellston School Dispute Hearing Slated March 4

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — A March 4 hearing has been scheduled in Jackson County Common Pleas Court on a taxpayers suit to block Ralph Crabtree from functioning as business manager of the Wellston School System.

Crabtree was a key figure in a recent strike by teachers and administrators at Wellston schools. The walkout, prompted by the Wellston School Board's decision not to rehire six administrators, ended last week.

Crabtree is a former school board member.

The taxpayers' suit was filed Friday by William Starkey with the backing of the Wellston Citizens Committee for Better Education.

Old Naval Mine Proves Deadly

MIAMI (AP) — A rusty old naval mine used as salty decor at a popular seafood restaurant blew a crater six feet deep and 20 feet wide at the county's bomb disposal dump, officials say.

A customer at Monty's Conch Raw Bar kicked the four-foot thick sphere last week and three chunks fell out, police said Monday.

Police bomb expert Newton Porter said the 90-pound chunks were an explosive similar to TNT and he had it gently removed to the bomb dump where it was detonated.

"We would still be down there picking up the pieces" if the mine had gone off at the restaurant, he added.

Vo School Continues Bid Awards

Bid awards in the amount of $106,385.36 were made at the meeting Monday night of the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School Board. Bids were awarded for the resource center and library materials in the amount of $14,799; agriculture equipment, $15,958.58; horticulture equipment on a partial order, $7,175.09.

The board also purchased recommended textbooks in the amount of $6,229.10. The textbooks purchase was on a separate order from the equipment.

A lengthy discussion of the water supply problem was held and the whole situation reviewed. A meeting with the architect and engineer is scheduled for Friday to take a closer look at the possibility of setting up a water supply system on the school grounds. The water in this case would come from a well system.

Board members and the architect were optimistic concerning this route in supplying the water for the school. Most of the rural schools and industries in the area are furnished water supplies by well systems. In these cases, the wells have proven very satisfactory.

Price Changes Counterbalance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office has approved counterbalancing price shifts involving a one-cent hike in the wholesale price of gasoline and a two-cent price decrease for middle distillate fuel oil.

An FEO spokesman said Monday the price adjustments, reversing increases and decreases authorized last December, would not affect refinery profits significantly because the shifts would just about cancel each other.

The FEO said the changes would appear in price adjustments allowed on March 1 and would begin to affect prices to consumers a few days later.

Furnace Trouble Closes LEHS

Logan Elm High School was closed today while boilers in the heating system were repaired it was announced by John Henn, superintendent of LE district.

Henn noted that all schools in the LE district were experiencing mechanical problems due to lack of operating funds. Henn said that all preventative maintenance programs had been discontinued because of a lack of money.

In addition to the mechanical problems at the schools, the district is also experiencing difficulty with its school bus fleet.

Seven buses used by the district are either 10 years old or have over 100,000 miles. Since September, five buses have had new motors, a costly item for the budget Henn stated. Because of the condition of the fleet, many bus routes have been running late or have not been run at all he stated.

The Logan Elm Board of Education has placed a 5-mill levy on the ballot for the May Primary, which Henn says is necessary for the continued operation of the school system.

Jury Seated To Decide Civil Suit

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Their Message From Daughter

DEAR ABBY: On Dec. 10th, 1973, you published a notice in your column advising runaway kids anywhere in the U.S.A. that they could direct dial a number FREE OF CHARGE and request that their parents be called and told that they were alive and well. It was understood that there would be no lecturing or counseling, and their calls would NOT be traced. And if the parents wanted to leave a message, the runaway could call back in a day or two to get it. The program is called "OPERATION PEACE OF MIND," and its purpose is to re-establish communication between runaways and their parents.

Abby, you gave us the most wonderful Christmas present we've ever had. Our 17-year-old daughter had run away from home two years ago. We received a call Christmas Day telling us she had called in and wanted us to know that she was well and working her way through college! Her father and I cried most of that night. We left the message that we still loved her and wanted to help in any way we could. When she got our message she wrote us a letter saying she would come home after she finished her school semester!

Please, please, publicize that toll-free number again. It should be posted wherever runaways gather. God love you!

CAN'T THANK YOU ENOUGH
DEAR CAN'T: Don't thank me. Thank those wonderful volunteers in Houston, who man those phones 24 hours a day.

I'll repeat the message: If you are a runaway OUTSIDE THE STATE OF TEXAS who wants to give your parents a message, direct dial 1-800-231-6946. If you're IN the state of Texas, direct dial 1-800-392-3352. If you're IN Houston, dial 524-3821.

The only question that will be asked of you is, "Do you need any help—medical or otherwise?" If so you'll be told where it is available FREE wherever you are. Please, forget the past and let your parents know that you are alive. They'll sleep better tonight—and so will you. God bless you!

DEAR ABBY: I hope it's not too late to add another gem to your collection of far-out Christmas card messages:

"Joe and I hope you have a very nice Christmas and a wonderful New Year. We will never forget all the good times we had together. Please understand, though, that we still intend to continue our lawsuit against you. Love, MARY"

DEAR SUE-D: It's never too late for a good chuckle.

Man Producing Gas Substitute

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— When Josiah Morgan of Middletown finds something too expensive, he invents a cheaper substitute. His latest project? A home-made gasoline concocted of farm products from southern states.

"I intend to make a test run shortly between here and Nashville, and I know I can do it on less than two dollars worth of fuel," said the 37-year-old industrial worker.

The 400-mile journey will be made in a standard automobile. With nothing altered in the fuel system, Morgan says.

"We see smart people sending men to the moon, but we look around and we can hardly buy gas to get us to Dayton," he said.

"As far as I'm concerned, I feel the problem can be solved on the farms," he predicted.

Morgan's keeping quiet about the contents of his gasoline substitute. But he says its based on chemicals and products grown on farms in the southern states or in banana-growing areas.

He says he's already tested it and found it had no ill effects on his car.

Inventing has been his hobby for 10 years now. Morgan works fulltime at a Middletown box-making company.

"If anything bugs me, I try to find a better way of doing it."

"Everybody has creative ability. People say you shouldn't dream, but I do."

He's produced a low-cost marble-like gravemarker for low-income families, "soul" food stuffs and a hold-up proof fast food service for "rough" neighborhoods.

Other projects include:

- An instant cornbread stuffing.
- An instant sweet potato pie.
- A "soul" pizza which features a thin layer of cornbread.
- A mixture of spices that can be sprinkled on french fries, beef, pork, fish.
- An instant baked bean sauce.

Morgan admits he's had little success in marketing many of the products, but he's taking the setbacks in stride.

"I believe that once you're knocked down, you should get up again. Maybe I should have begged up some money to push my products, but I won't do that."

"I'm inspired when I see something that is needed out there and no one is working on the idea," Morgan says he spends hours at a library researching. He says he's collected reams of information from food laboratories and colleges.

"Almost anything you can mention, I have something in my files on it that I have been working on," said Morgan.

"And, when the bread crisis occurs, I will have something ready for that, too."

Red Chinese Foreign Policy To Remain Same, Chou Says

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai has made clear that though China's anti-Confucius, anti-Lin Piao campaign will be pushed "to the end," it will not be allowed to interfere with his open-door foreign policy.

In his first public comment on the new nationwide purge, the Chinese premier criticized Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, the Soviet Union and "foreign diehards" for opposing the movement.

But he made two references to China's international role which served notice that, far from curtailing its new internationalism, Peking will expand that policy.

"China is a developing country, and our contribution to the people of the world has so far been rather modest," he said. And later he added that under

Mao Tse-tung's leadership, China will "strive to make a greater contribution to the people of the world."

Chou's brief reference to the "surging" campaign against Lin, the late defense minister accused of plotting against Mao, and Confucius apparently was to rebut persistent reports that Chou himself was the target of the movement.

His name has not been specifically mentioned, but some students of Chinese affairs have interpreted the attacks on the Confucian virtues of moderation as attacks on the 75-year-old premier. Leftists reportedly last summer began a major offensive against the premier and his moderate course in foreign policy.

But Chinese and other informed sources last week said Chou had turned the tables on his critics.

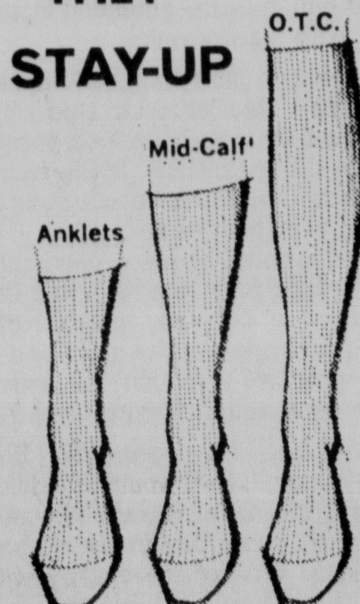

The purge has not yet emerged from the stage of generalities. Amid a wordy screen of denunciations of Lin and Confucius, those who oppose the reforms in education, politics, literature, art and medicine produced by the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution are being attacked as a class.

Bad 'Good' Homes

"All of them came from good homes," read the police report. All of them, meaning a band of young criminals, had just been arrested and charged with numerous crimes, some petty and some not.

What exactly is the term "good home" meant to mean? Are the police saying the young person comes from a $40,000 house, or that his father has a good job, one that pays him well?

No News Is Bad News

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Attorney-General William Saxbe and FBI director Clarence Kelley should have stood in bed last Thursday when they were reported about to release some breakthrough news in the Patricia Hearst kidnapping case.

Their news was that they had no news. They or their platoons of publicity men let the rumors build for hours without issuing a disclaimer. Hopes rose throughout the nation, only to be durnably doused.

Congress might just take another little look at baseball's special position. It enjoys freedom from being demolished as a monopoly. Congress protects its medieval reserve clause on the ground that it is a sport, not a business. If the Ford Motor Company tried to run its business along the same lines (no welder can jump to a better job at GM, Chrysler or Pierce-Arrow), Henry II would be in court on anti-trust charges and in all probability be convicted.

No additional proof that baseball is a cold-hearted business and violating the anti-trust laws is really needed. But the matter has been illuminated by the decision of the owner of the Atlanta Braves to bench Hank Aaron, the game's greatest slugger, during the Braves' opening three games of the upcoming season. Those three games will be played in Cincinnati. Hank needs only one home run to tie Babe Ruth's record 714, and one more to go ahead. The Atlanta owner doesn't want anything like that to happen in Cincinnati.

He wants it to happen in Atlanta before sell-out crowds and a larger percentage of the "gate" than he would get in Cincinnati. There is also special TV income involved, the sale of more Hank Aaron bats, gloves, penants and peanuts.

Our ouija board has run out of fuel, so we can't send a message to Babe Ruth, asking for a statement. Even we had the ouija gas, the answer probably would be unprintable.

The suggestion has been made that Atlanta might escape the wrath of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, fellow owners and baseball fans in general by ordering Hank to appear as scheduled in Cincinnati for those three games, but left-handed.

But that could be dangerous. He's a natural hitter, left or right. Perhaps an additional restriction might be invoked. He could be ordered not only to bat left-handed but use Sam Sneed's putting stroke. Blindfolded, of course, and his legs bound with antiballum ball and chain.

Speaking of sports, the cartoonists of the land have convinced many that the average fan is a slovenly slob sunken into a fat armchair, watching some game on TV and downing his 6-pack. (Ed. Note: So what's wrong with that?)

Or do the police mean the boy's parents are good people, a father and mother who have always done their best to bring their children up properly?

The police have little chance to analyze the home environment of every young wrongdoer they arrest. They see only the surface. If the home is in a good district, if the father has a good job, they automatically say the boy comes from "a good home."

What a misnomer that description often proves to be. Some of the finest houses contain parents in name only. Some of the best-paid men are terrible fathers.

"A good home" should mean a home where parents have a strong sense of responsibility toward their children, a home where the mother and the father try to set a good example. A house can be a shack and still be a good home.

increasing numbers are becoming active, not sedentary, sports participants. Proof: more than 4,000,000 casts were applied to broken bones last year, most of them broken or sprung while pursuing skiing, football, tennis, horseback riding, skating, and, presumably, chess.

To meet this crying need, Messrs M.S. and D., whose orthopedics company is in West Point—Pa., not New York—have designed "Lightcast II." It's made of fiberglass, is water-resistant hardens in three minutes, is much lighter than Henry VIII's, but can still be signed.

Casts reach 'way back. Egyptian doctors used splints on broken-up patients as early as 5000 B.C. Hippocrates described the common cast of the 4th century, B.C. The cast of that time was hardened bandages of gum and flour. He wrote of shawl slings, too, and urged, "Eat lightly ... because of reduced exercise."

Arabia, which now won't give us oil, gave us the plaster cast in the 10th century. But it was war, and the advent of gunpowder and new weapons, that "made" the cast in Europe in middle 1800s. Florence Nightingale was an articulate champion of the plaster of Paris cast that held its own until, well, I guess until "Lightcast II."

That would leave us with quite a team of international negotiators, President Gerald Ford, who gets a nose bleed if he travels north of Washington, D.C. and Secretary of State Death Valley Scotty.

Russian Military Advisers Gain S. American Foothold

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say Russian military advisers have moved into the South American continent for the first time.

They report that Russian technicians have arrived in Peru to train Peruvian soldiers in the use of T55 medium tanks bought from Russia last year.

Russian military advisers have been present in Cuba for about a dozen years, but never have been accepted by a South American nation.

Peru's purchase of Russian tanks and other military hardware has alarmed Chile and some other neighboring countries. The appearance of Russian military advisers is certain to deepen that concern, U.S. military officials said.

American intelligence is uncertain how many Russian tanks and advisers have reached Peru. There have been reports that the Peruvian government has bought as many as 200 medium tanks, heavy artillery and other arms, and may be planning to order some small SA7 anti-aircraft missiles, from the Soviet Union.

Russia has been trying for some years to gain an arms sales foothold in South America.

Moscow concentrated on Chile until the overthrow of the leftist Allende government by a rightist military junta last fall. Despite offers of low price, low interest, long term arms deals, Russia was not able to open up a market there.

Then the Soviet Union switched its focus to Peru, and Peruvian President Juan Velasco acknowledged two months ago that his government had bought tanks and other weapons from Russia.

This was followed by reports that Chile's new military rulers were negotiating with the French for the possible purchase of more than 40 AMX30 medium tanks, which the Chilean army regards as comparable to the Russian armor bought by Peru.

Meanwhile, Chilean officers asked for American tanks and planes, arguing that these new armaments are essential to maintain an armed balance with Peru.

The Chileans have been telling American diplomats and military men that the Peruvians might use their new military muscle to try and take back territory lost to Chile in the War of the Pacific nearly 100 years ago.

U.S. officials appear to take little stock in talk of a new Chilean-Peruvian war, but they are disturbed at what is shaping up as an arms race in Latin America.

NEW YORK (AP) — The age of unlimited natural resources is coming to an end and that means the country badly needs a national planning corporation, said John T. Connor, Allied Chemical chairman and former secretary of commerce.

Such a corporation, independent of politics and staffed by the best minds available, would coordinate research into the availability of resources, make projections and recommend action for both government and industry.

Otherwise, he said, the danger exists that all powers and responsibilities may be usurped by a federal government that feels compelled, in the general interest, to allocate materials and dictate policy.

He indicated that central planning, long abhorred by a nation of private interests that preferred to do their own research and marketing, might now be required in the national interest.

"It seems to me that the developments now taking place in government indicates the need," said Connor, referring to plans now being developed by oil consuming nations to help each other in times of scarcity.

"In order to do this the United States would have to have the power to seize from private owners, and sell or give to countries on an emergency basis."

But, he continued, "nobody is even thinking about how does the United States government get that seizure power." Nor, he suggested, is any serious thought being given to the alternatives to that eventualities.

"Hopefully, we won't have to nationalize oil and other industries, but at least we should begin a planning organization that will get the facts about the natural resources situation."

Connor, who left the Johnson administration to assume his present job, suggests the format might be a Comsat-type company, federally chartered but not part of the governmental structure. But, because of a strong national interest, it would obtain funding from government as well as private sources.

Governmental units, corporations, universities, foundations and others would contract for research by the company, which would employ not only technicians and economists but experts in various disciplines, drawn from business, labor, education or elsewhere.

Rather than be organized to take action, the company would limit activities to advice and recommendations, and perhaps to stating the options for action by either private or governmental groups.

Connor, who is also a director of General Motors, described his idea as "a plan in the rough that should be subjected to discussion and criticism." There is, he said, "a great ignorance on the whole subject, an international ignorance."

Assembly Eyes Lake Drilling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill banning the drilling for oil and gas in Lake Erie for four years is expected to come out of the House Interstate Cooperation Committee Wednesday.

It is one of two bills on the subject before the committee. One would ban drilling until July 1, 1976, and the other would remove the temporary ban currently against the exploration.

Rep. J. Timothy McCormack, D-18 Euclid, offered the bill to make the ban four years. It was originally a permanent ban, but was amended in committee with his approval.

"We want to guard against slipshod operations," McCormack said. "We want to put the legislature in a position to police the operations. If the energy crisis grows, we can always amend out the four year provision."

Ohio attempted to put a permanent ban on drilling four years ago, but then decided on a two-year period after meeting with other states and Canada. The current two-year ban, the second to have been adopted, ends July 1.

Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck, R-72 Huron, has a bill that would extend the ban until 1976. Rep. Ronald Weyandt, D-43 Akron, would like to see all bans removed in view of the energy shortage.

McCormack said he thought his bill had a good chance of making it out of committee. "It would have come out last week, I believe, but we didn't have enough members on hand to recommend it," he said.

Both houses of the General Assembly reconvene Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

More than two dozen hearings are scheduled this week on 90 bills in both chambers, 49 in the House and 41 in the Senate.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has made extensive studies on metabolism control. Researchers fed a snake only water for 365 days and it survived without any ill effects.

But, he continued, "nobody is even thinking about how does the United States government get that seizure power." Nor, he suggested, is any serious thought being given to the alternatives to that eventually.

"Hopefully, we won't have to nationalize oil and other industries, but at least we should begin a planning organization that will get the facts about the natural resources situation."

Connor, who left the Johnson administration to assume his present job, suggests the format might be a Comsat-type company, federally chartered but not part of the governmental structure. But, because of a strong national interest, it would obtain funding from government as well as private sources.

Governmental units, corporations, universities, foundations and others would contract for research by the company, which would employ not only technicians and economists but experts in various disciplines, drawn from business, labor, education or elsewhere.

Rather than be organized to take action, the company would limit activities to advice and recommendations, and perhaps to stating the options for action by either private or governmental groups.

Connor, who is also a director of General Motors, described his idea as "a plan in the rough that should be subjected to discussion and criticism." There is, he said, "a great ignorance on the whole subject, an international ignorance."

Assembly Eyes Lake Drilling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill banning the drilling for oil and gas in Lake Erie for four years is expected to come out of the House Interstate Cooperation Committee Wednesday.

It is one of two bills on the subject before the committee. One would ban drilling until July 1, 1976, and the other would remove the temporary ban currently against the exploration.

Rep. J. Timothy McCormack, D-18 Euclid, offered the bill to make the ban four years. It was originally a permanent ban, but was amended in committee with his approval.

"We want to guard against slipshod operations," McCormack said. "We want to put the legislature in a position to police the operations. If the energy crisis grows, we can always amend out the four year provision."

Ohio attempted to put a permanent ban on drilling four years ago, but then decided on a two-year period after meeting with other states and Canada. The current two-year ban, the second to have been adopted, ends July 1.

Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck, R-72 Huron, has a bill that would extend the ban until 1976. Rep. Ronald Weyandt, D-43 Akron, would like to see all bans removed in view of the energy shortage.

McCormack said he thought his bill had a good chance of making it out of committee. "It would have come out last week, I believe, but we didn't have enough members on hand to recommend it," he said.

Both houses of the General Assembly reconvene Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

More than two dozen hearings are scheduled this week on 90 bills in both chambers, 49 in the House and 41 in the Senate.

See Rising Cotton Exports Due To Shortage Of Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert said today that U.S. cotton farmers can look forward to a growing export market, partly because of the world energy crunch.

Production of synthetic fiber from petrochemical sources has been hit hard, and fertilizer will be in short supply and expensive in many foreign cotton areas, H. Reiter Webb of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a report.

"Consequently, a large increase in foreign cotton consumption in the near future seems more likely than a commensurately large increase in foreign cotton production," Webb said. "As a result, the outlook for U.S. cotton exports is bright."

Although a precise estimate of reductions in foreign output of synthetic fibers is impossible, Webb said, reports by U.S. agricultural attaches abroad indicate 1974 production may be down 10 to 18 per cent from last year.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the year ending June 30 are estimated at 5.5 million bales at a value of $1.3 billion. In 1972-73, exports were about 4.7 million bales for a value of $755 million.

Webb, noting that U.S. cotton prices the past year have climbed to the highest marks since the Civil War, said some large producing countries such as the Soviet Union, China, Iran and Nigeria are either self-sufficient in petroleum or have dependable sources of foreign supply.

Thus, he said, enough fuel is available in those countries to support larger cotton output this year. But those also include areas where fertilizer imports may be reduced or priced so high that not enough will be available.

"In view of the generally tight world availability of fertilizer, these countries are likely to encounter difficulty in obtaining the supplies they require," he said.

Other reports by USDA show cotton farmers intend to plant about 14.5 million acres this year, up about one-fifth from 1973. But domestic shortages of fuel and fertilizer also persist and could mean less of a harvest increase this year than otherwise might be counted on.

Sanction Notice Hits Southwest School District

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association (OEA) issued a sanction notice Monday charging the Southwest Hamilton Local School District of Harrison is "an undesirable place to work."

The OEA's 30-member executive committee said the Southwest school board "has failed to guarantee every professional educator the right to due process" in its dismissal policy.

That policy is the heart of a dispute involving more than 100 of the district's 135 teachers who have been striking the school since Friday.

An OEA study was conducted of the district last June. The sanction notice will remain in force until the board takes action to resolve the issues, the OEA said.

Safeguards For Privacy Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has called for safeguards of privacy to "prevent computers from becoming huge, mechanical, impersonal robots that deprive us of our essential liberties."

Nixon named Vice President Gerald R. Ford as chairman of an 11-member panel to forge "a personal shield for every American ... to protect his right to privacy."

In a national radio address Saturday, the President warned that computer data banks kept by government and private agencies pose "an awesome potential for harm."

Nixon made no reference to the wiretapping controversies of his administration. But an accompanying White House fact sheet said he had instructed the new panel to avoid this area until a wiretap study commission formed by Congress makes its recommendations.

The President said names and personal data about more than 150 million Americans are now in computer banks across the country. Nixon said the government alone has information stored in more than 7,000 computers.

Nixon declared: "What a person earns, what he owes, what he gives to his church or charity is his personal business and should not be spread around without his consent."

The high-level Domestic Council committee, Nixon said, will examine how the federal government collects information, how that data is protected and procedures to permit citizens to inspect and correct information held by public or private organizations.

The President said he was directing the panel to draw up initial recommendations for safeguards within four months.

In addition to Ford, the committee will include six Cabinet members — the attorney general and secretaries of the treasury, defense, labor, and health, education and welfare. Also on it will be the Civil Service Commission chairman and the directors of the Office of Management and Budget, the Office of Consumer Affairs and the Office of Telecommunications Policy.

Foes Fight Integration

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Opposition mounted to the Cincinnati Board of Education's desegregation plan Monday.

A coalition of local civil rights and community organizations appeared before the board to voice disapproval of the present plan. The group wanted the new board to implement a broader desegregation plan approved by the previous board.

More than 700 of the city's public school teachers voted last week to oppose the new plan, which calls for voluntary desegregation by students and teacher transfers to achieve a 75 per cent white, 25 per cent black teacher ratio at all city schools.

Rev. Otis Moss, spokesman for the Coalition of Concerned Educators, Organizations and Citizens, told the board his group wants "integration of both faculty and students at the same time."

"We consider anything short of this step an attempt by the board to evade its legal obligation to obey the law and to initiate affirmative action for complete desegregation of the school district," Moss said.

State To Provide Aid To Construction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Mental Health Director Kenneth Gaver announced Monday the state will provide about $85,000 in construction assistance funds for a proposed Jackson County health building.

The project will cost an estimated $350,000, with the county providing $125,000 and the federal government $140,000. Part of the structure will be used to house community mental health services.

State Tax Refunds Flowing To Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Tax Commissioner Robert Kosydar said Monday that more than 182,000 state income tax refunds had been sent out and another 351,000 had been processed for issuance of checks.

Kosydar said refund checks have been averaging slightly under $18.

Federal Salaries Skyrocket

NEW YORK (AP) — A research group says that Federal government salaries, rising faster than the rate of inflation, have more than doubled during the last 10 years to $64 billion annually.

Tax Foundation Inc., a nonprofit group founded in 1937, reported Sunday that federal personnel costs were expected to reach nearly $70 billion during the upcoming fiscal year.

It cited an increase of nearly $28 billion, or about 66 per cent, in the past five years despite drastic military personnel reductions following the U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam.

In addition to salary hikes, the foundation found a 147 per cent increase in benefits over the past five years, and a general upgrading in job classifications.

The foundation linked the trend of salary hikes to the Salary Reform Act of 1962, which sought to keep U.S. pay scales in line with private industry compensation.

Since the bill, the group said, the average earnings of federal civilian employees have climbed 88 per cent, compared with 66 per cent in the private sector.

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Tuesday February 26, 1974

ANNIVERSARY TIME—Mr. and Mrs. James Cupp of 1101 S. Washington St., will be honored on their 37th wedding anniversary with an open house. The couple will greet their friends from 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the basement of the Church of the Brethren located at the corner of Logan and South Pickaway Sts. Hosting the event will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkes and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brooks. Assisting will be Mrs. Jason McDonald, sister of Mrs. Cupp.

Women Of Hedges Chapel Hold Annual Silver Tea

United Methodist Women of Hedges Chapel Church held their 34th annual Silver Tea at the church on Saturday afternoon.

Theme for this year's program, under the direction of Mrs. Link Brown program chairman, was "The Garden Of Love." Decorations of flowers, birds and an archway and trellis with trailing ivy in the church sanctuary provided the background for the program.

Mrs. Brown was narrator with people of all ages participating in the activities. Cindy Hedges and Carol

Winter sang "Sunbonnet Sue" and the church choir, "Is There Anybody Here?" with Mrs. Joseph Peters directing. Jim Pabst sang "Time In A Bottle."

Everett and Eloise Beers in the portion of the program "Sweethearts On Parade," sang "Sweetheart" in the familiar style of Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy. Mrs. David Dill and her daughter, Lois, sang "An Old Fashioned Garden." Continuing with the theme were Roger and Jane Schneider with Roger singing "More" to Jane. Jim and Lee Walden sang a medley of songs including "Moonlight Bay" and "Harvest Moon."

The Rev. and Mrs. John W. Glick strolled through the garden, picked a daisy along the way and dropped its petals to the tune of "Always."

The hymn "In The Garden" was played while Rev. Glick sat under a tree as he read a verse of the song.

A doting twosome, Carl and Marie Bennett, proved that love increases as the years go on when they sang "If I Had My Way."

The final song by all was "What The World Needs Now Is Love." Mrs. Joseph Peters was accompanist at the piano and Mrs. David Dill at the organ.

Refreshments were served in the social room of the church under the guidance of Miss Thelma Hines and Mrs. Ralph Woolever.

Mrs. Dean Sells Speaker For Logan Elm Garden Club

Mrs. Dean Sells presented the program for the February meeting of Logan Elm Garden Club recently in the home of Mrs. Judson Beougher, Laurelville, with Mrs. Yvonne Drake as assisting hostess.

Attending were two guests Mrs. Raymond Hedges and Mrs. Sells and 11 members. Mrs. Beougher read several verses from Psalm 118 and a poem titled "This Is The Day God Hath Made."

Roll call was answered by naming birds members fed this winter. An invitation was read from Monrovia Garden Club to its open meeting 8 p.m. March 4 at Five Points United Methodist Church. Guest speaker, Clinton Shepard of Columbus, will use as his topic "Ohio's Natural Resources."

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce was read by the president asking the club to participate in the clean-up program. Mrs. Winfred Dunn will represent the club at their next meeting.

Mrs. Beougher brought the chance gift which was won by Mrs. Luther List.

Mrs. Sells made arrangements and explained how to place the foliage and different flowers. A question and answer period followed the demonstration. Arrangements were displayed to show the different uses for flowers, foliage and props.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Frank Graves.

Delegates Attend Legion Auxiliary Annual Conference

Roseann Stinson and Mary Stephens, members of Hall-Adkins Post, Unit 134 attended the Midwinter Conference of Onio Units of the American Legion Auxiliary held Friday through Sunday at the Neil House Motor Inn, Columbus.

Mrs. Stinson was among the 100 field service volunteers who had completed the required hours to receive official pins which are presented each year at this conference. She was also given a volunteer hospital pin earned for her work at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Stephens, who has served as Seventh District Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation chairman for two years, along with many others in the state, were recognized for their work at all the veterans hospitals and with veterans in family care homes in their communities.

"Sharing Is Caring" is the theme for the year selected by Mrs. George E. Sallot of Parma, department president. The conference is held annually for the purpose of instructing members on programs and activities to be promoted in their local communities.

Mrs. Nile Fuller of the Department of Wisconsin, national vice president of the central division, was the honored guest and speaker at the Saturday evening banquet.

State No-Fault Divorce Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio soon may have a new law that would permit a married couple to obtain a divorce without "perjuring themselves or each other," says Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville.

Norris is chief sponsor of a bill already approved by the House and pending in the Senate which in part embraces the so-called "no fault" divorce law currently in effect in California.

The Westerville legislator doesn't like his bill to be described as "no fault," however, since it retains the right for partners in a marriage to sue one another if they can not agree on the terms of a settlement such as child custody and ownership of property.

Under his bill, if those things can be agreed upon and if a man or his wife applies to a court a judge would be authorized simply to dissolve the marriage.

Present law requires one spouse to swear that the other is guilty of one or more of 10 possible grounds for divorce.

The 10 existing grounds are adultery, wilful absence for a period of one year, desertion, extreme cruelty, habitual drunkenness, gross neglect, imprisonment by one party in a state or federal prison for a year or more, impotence, fraudulent contract or a divorced obtained outside the state by one of the parties.

Norris' bill adds the marriage dissolution authority as an 11th basis for divorce, along with some other checks that might be applied by a judge.

A judge could, for instance, refuse to dissolve a marriage if one or both of the parties is below 18 years of age, unless they can certify that they have undertaken marriage counselling in manner "satisfactory to the court."

The judge might also order a couple to submit to conciliation for a period of 90 days.

Norris' bill also contains a clause that would permit a marriage to be dissolved if the partners have not lived together for a continuous period of two years.

This clause probably will be deleted, however, since the legislature recently enacted a separate bill that does the same thing. It was signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan and taken affect May 7.

The Westerville attorney is optimistic about the chances for his reform legislation to be enacted into law. It is needed, he maintains, "to bring Ohio's divorce laws out of the 19th Century."

In a 1-quart saucepan sprinkle the gelatin over ½ cup of the cold grape juice; allow to soften for about 5 minutes. Place over low heat and stir constantly with a rubber spatula, especially around sides of pan, until gelatin dissolves — 4 or 5 minutes. Off heat, stir in remaining 1½ cups grape juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened. Fold in oranges. Turn into a 5-cup mold. Chill until set before unmolding. Makes 6 servings.

With a slotted spoon remove fish to serving platter; remove toothpicks; keep warm. Stir together the cornstarch and water until smooth; gradually whisk in some of the hot broth mixture; return to skillet; cook briskly, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling. Whisk egg yolk; gradually whisk in some of the hot broth mixture; return to skillet; cook gently, stirring constantly and without boiling, just enough to cook egg yolk — a few minutes. Drain any liquid from fish; spoon sauce over. Makes 6 servings.

The couple will greet their friends from 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the basement of the Church of the Brethren located at the corner of Logan and South Pickaway Sts. Women Of Hedges Chapel Hold Annual Silver Tea

United Methodist Women of Hedges Chapel Church held their 34th annual Silver Tea at the church on Saturday afternoon.

Theme for this year's program, under the direction of Mrs. Link Brown program chairman, was "The Garden Of Love." Decorations of flowers, birds and an archway and trellis with trailing ivy in the church sanctuary provided the background for the program.

Mrs. Brown was narrator with people of all ages participating in the activities. Cindy Hedges and Carol

Winter sang "Sunbonnet Sue" and the church choir, "Is There Anybody Here?" with Mrs. Joseph Peters directing. Jim Pabst sang "Time In A Bottle."

Everett and Eloise Beers in the portion of the program "Sweethearts On Parade," sang "Sweetheart" in the familiar style of Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy. Mrs. David Dill and her daughter, Lois, sang "An Old Fashioned Garden." Continuing with the theme were Roger and Jane Schneider with Roger singing "More" to Jane. Jim and Lee Walden sang a medley of songs including "Moonlight Bay" and "Harvest Moon."

The Rev. and Mrs. John W. Glick strolled through the garden, picked a daisy along the way and dropped its petals to the tune of "Always."

The hymn "In The Garden" was played while Rev. Glick sat under a tree as he read a verse of the song.

A doting twosome, Carl and Marie Bennett, proved that love increases as the years go on when they sang "If I Had My Way."

The final song by all was "What The World Needs Now Is Love." Mrs. Joseph Peters was accompanist at the piano and Mrs. David Dill at the organ.

Refreshments were served in the social room of the church under the guidance of Miss Thelma Hines and Mrs. Ralph Woolever.

Mrs. Dean Sells Speaker For Logan Elm Garden Club

Mrs. Dean Sells presented the program for the February meeting of Logan Elm Garden Club recently in the home of Mrs. Judson Beougher, Laurelville, with Mrs. Yvonne Drake as assisting hostess.

Attending were two guests Mrs. Raymond Hedges and Mrs. Sells and 11 members. Mrs. Beougher read several verses from Psalm 118 and a poem titled "This Is The Day God Hath Made."

Roll call was answered by naming birds members fed this winter. An invitation was read from Monrovia Garden Club to its open meeting 8 p.m. March 4 at Five Points United Methodist Church. Guest speaker, Clinton Shepard of Columbus, will use as his topic "Ohio's Natural Resources."

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce was read by the president asking the club to participate in the clean-up program. Mrs. Winfred Dumm will represent the club at their next meeting.

Mrs. Beougher brought the chance gift which was won by Mrs. Luther List.

Mrs. Sells made arrangements and explained how to place the foliage and different flowers. A question and answer period followed the demonstration. Arrangements were displayed to show the different uses for flowers, foliage and props.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Frank Graves.

Delegates Attend Legion Auxiliary Annual Conference

Roseann Stinson and Mary Stephens, members of Hall-Adkins Post, Unit 134 attended the Midwinter Conference of Ohio Units of the American Legion Auxiliary held Friday through Sunday at the Neil House Motor Inn, Columbus.

Mrs. Stinson was among the 100 field service volunteers who had completed the required hours to receive official pins which are presented each year at this conference. She was also given a volunteer hospital pin earned for her work at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Stephens, who has served as Seventh District Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation chairman for two years, along with many others in the state, were recognized for their work at all the veterans hospitals and with veterans in family care homes in their communities.

"Sharing Is Caring" is the theme for the year selected by Mrs. George E. Sallot of Parma, department president. The conference is held annually for the purpose of instructing members on programs and activities to be promoted in their local communities.

Mrs. Nile Fuller of the Department of Wisconsin, national vice president of the central division, was the honored guest and speaker at the Saturday evening banquet.

State No-Fault Divorce Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio soon may have a new law that would permit a married couple to obtain a divorce without "perjuring themselves or each other," says Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville.

Norris is chief sponsor of a bill already approved by the House and pending in the Senate which in part embraces the so-called "no fault" divorce law currently in effect in California.

The Westerville legislator doesn't like his bill to be described as "no fault," however, since it retains the right for partners in a marriage to sue one another if they can not agree on the terms of a settlement such as child custody and ownership of property.

Under his bill, if those things can be agreed upon and if a man or his wife applies to a court a judge would be authorized simply to dissolve the marriage.

Present law requires one spouse to swear that the other is guilty of one or more of 10 possible grounds for divorce.

The 10 existing grounds are adultery, wilful absence for a period of one year, desertion, extreme cruelty, habitual drunkenness, gross neglect, imprisonment by one party in a state or federal prison for a year or more, impotence, fraudulent contract or a divorced obtained outside the state by one of the parties.

Norris' bill adds the marriage dissolution authority as an 11th basis for divorce, along with some other checks that might be applied by a judge.

A judge could, for instance, refuse to dissolve a marriage if one or both of the parties is below 18 years of age, unless they can certify that they have undertaken marriage counseling in manner "satisfactory to the court."

The judge might also order a couple to submit to conciliation for a period of 90 days.

Norris' bill also contains a clause that would permit a marriage to be dissolved if the partners have not lived together for a continuous period of two years.

This clause probably will be deleted, however, since the legislature recently enacted a separate bill that does the same thing. It was signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan and taken affect May 7.

Believe American Balloonist Had To Ditch In Atlantic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Meteorological Center estimates that missing adventurer Thomas Gatch Jr. had to ditch his balloon "Light Heart" in the Atlantic Ocean some 900 miles from the African coast.

A spokesman for Gatch relayed the report from the federal weather agency Monday as rescuers continued searching the sands and seas of Africa in vain for any sign of the 47-year-old balloonist.

Gatch, from Alexandria, Va., was striving to become the first man to cross the Atlantic in a balloon.

He was last sighted Thursday morning by a Spanish freighter some two-thirds of the way across the Atlantic, drifting at an altitude of only about 1,000 feet.

The spokesman for Gatch said the meteorological center estimated, on the basis of the sighting and known wind conditions, that Gatch came down Friday night about 900 miles away from the coast.

All air and sea traffic in an area off Spanish Sahara and Mauritania had been alerted to keep watch, the spokesman said. He said the Defense Department had agreed to dispatch a search plane to the area where Gatch was believed to have ditched.

According to the spokesman, Gatch had flares, reflecting mirrors, a strobe light, flashlight, emergency locator transmitter, a life vest, life raft and ample food supplies. The gondola of his balloon was designed to float at sea.

Ten helium-filled balloons pulled Gatch aloft as he left Harrisburg, Pa., nine days ago. He lost one shortly after leaving the United States mainland.

When sighted Thursday by the Spanish freighter "Meridian," Gatch's gondola was suspended from eight balloons, the spokesman said. He said that was enough during daytime, when the sun's rays heat the helium, but not enough to keep his craft aloft at night.

Gatch is the son of Vice Adm. Thomas L. Gatch, who commanded the battleship South Dakota in World War II and was the chief investigator in the crash of the airship Macon in 1935.

Heavy Gold Buying Seen By Arabs

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold continued its record rise to new heights today, hitting $175 dollars an ounce in London and $174 in Zurich. The latest rise came amid widespread reports that Arab oil producers were changing their dollars into the precious metal and some European currencies.

The American dollar, after steadying briefly Monday, slumped again on Europe's money markets. It dropped more than two pennings at the opening in Frankfurt and two Swiss centimes in Zurich.

Gold rose $5 an ounce at the opening of the bullion market today, having closed Monday at $170 in London and $169 in Zurich. It has risen $57.50 an ounce since the beginning of the year.

London dealers reported much of Monday's demand for gold appeared to be coming from Middle East dealers. They said trading was not heavy at the start, but demand was persistent and little of the metal was offered for sale.

Foreign exchange traders reported large buying orders for West German marks and Swiss francs from the Middle East. They said there was one order last Friday for the purchase of $1 billion worth of Swiss francs and two individual orders for like amounts of marks.

The dollar dropped six pfennings and six Swiss centimes Friday under the battering of deals of that size.

The dollar dropped three centimes in Paris today, opening at 4.88 francs.

Car Crash Drowns 8

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Eight teen-agers were killed Monday night when the car in which they were riding plunged into a creek in north Oakville, 20 miles west of Toronto, police said today.

The car was reported stolen, a police spokesman said.

The spokesman said the side road along which the young people were driving was icy, and the car skidded down an embankment into Sixteen Mile Creek.

Police said earlier they believed seven persons had been killed but raised the toll after the car was recovered from the creek.

The police said both boys and girls were in the group, and all were believed from the Oakville area.

Protestors Miss Kent State Jury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Demonstrators tried Monday to urge federal grand jurors probing the 1970 Kent State University shootings to indict guardsmen and state officials, but the marchers were too late.

The jury had left half an hour before the pickets began to circle in front of the building where the hearings resumed Monday after a two-week recess.

But before quitting for the day, the 22-member panel questioned the former mayor of Kent, LeRoy Satrom, and readied itself for today's sessions with other officials who helped to deal with the antiwar flareup nearly four years ago.

Among those who said they would face the jurors today were Sylvester Del Corso, 61, who as adjutant general at the time had charge of the Ohio National Guard, and John McElroy, former chief of staff for ex-Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The jury is investigating the May 1-4,

Store Owner Not Elated By Ruling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Winning a U.S. Supreme Court decision after a four-year battle doesn't delight skid row beer and wine store owner George Peto Jr.

"People think I should be happy. My wife says I should be elated, but I'm not," an annoyed Peto said Monday as he served customers in his rundown store lined with cheap liquor and adult magazines.

"I won't be happy until they are punished and they have to pay. They won't do anything like this again," he said.

The "They" are state liquor control agents.

In 1969 three agents swept through his store searching for evidence of gambling, Peto said. When they were unsuccessful, he said, they confiscated magazines.

Later, he was charged with selling obscene material, he said.

In a decision Monday, the Supreme Court prohibited the liquor department from stopping the sale of pornography along with liquor.

A lower court decision affirmed by the Supreme Court ruled the "seizure of material was based solely on the personal predilections of the liquor control agents."

Aldrich Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Winthrop W. Aldrich, 88, former board chairman of the Chase National Bank and former United States ambassador to the Court of St. James, died Monday. Aldrich, an uncle of former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, served as ambassador in London during President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration.

1970, series of antiwar protest rallies that climaxed in four student deaths when guardsmen opened fire shortly after noon May 4. Nine other students were wounded.

The demonstrators opposed U.S. military involvement in Cambodia. The guard had been called to the campus May 2 when the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps building was burned.

Satrom declined to discuss details of his session with the jury but said that he "testified to the best of my ability and memory."

Adding that he emphasized memory, Satrom said that he found it "somewhat difficult to remember things that happened 3½ to four years ago."

His attorney, Roger DiPaulo, said that Satrom answered jurors "completely and freely...to put to rest any suspicions and rumors that have arisen over the past four years." Neither commented on what "suspicions and rumors" they had in mind.

The dozen demonstrators who assembled in Cleveland Monday identified themselves as representatives of a group called Youth Against War and Fascism.

They carried signs with such legends as "Indict guardsmen, Del Corso, Rhodes and Nixon," "Indict Nixon for the Kent murders," and "The chain of guilt leads to Nixon."

And they continued their picketing for nearly two hours despite the absence of the jury at the time.

2 Campus Landmarks To Disappear At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University officials announced Monday two campus landmarks will be demolished within the next 18 months as part of a space reassignment program.

The buildings are the 79-year-old McMillin Observatory, which has been used for storage since 1967, and the 49-year-old president's home, which has been occupied since 1972 by the National Center on Educational Media and Materials.

It's sink or swim time and Vanderbilt's Commodores kept their heads above water.

Vanderbilt could have gone under, weighed down by Saturday night's 59-53 loss to Tennessee, but the Com-modores stayed afloat.

"I can't remember one of our teams that responds to pressure any better than this one," said Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner after his club bounced back with an 84-68 Southeastern Conference victory over Mississippi Monday night.

"This was no time to play around," said Vanderbilt's Terry Compton, who tossed in 18 points. "Our backs were to the wall."

The victory elevated Vanderbilt's record in the SEC to 14-2, the identical in-conference marks posted by seventh-ranked Alabama, which beat Georgia 99-74 Monday night.

If Vanderbilt can beat its two remaining SEC opponents, Kentucky and Florida, then the Commodores would become the Conference representative in the NCAA tournament — regardless of what Alabama does — since they hold two victories over the Crimson Tide.

In other games involving Top 20 teams, ninth-rated Indiana downed Michigan State 91-85 and No. 17 Michigan edged Wisconsin 78-74.

In a late game, 16th-rated Creighton played Navy SubPac.

Jeff Fosnes led Vanderbilt's scoring with 26 points while Matt Meibers had 16 points for the Rebels.

Georgia held a 2-0 lead but that was to be the only time the Bulldogs were in front all evening.

Alabama, led by Charles Cleveland's 18 points, raced to a 19-7 advantage and stretched it to 22 points before the first half was over.

There's a battle in the Big Ten, too, and Indiana seems to have the inside track.

Michigan State, 8-4 in the conference, is now out of the race but the Spartans gave it a run.

"Michigan State is really quick," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, whose Hoosiers lead the Big Ten with a 11-1 record, one game ahead of Michigan. "I was as apprehensive about this game as I have been about any game all season."

Freshmen center Kent Benson scored 19 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for Indiana, 19-3.

Campy Russell, this year's Big Ten scoring leader, raised his 21.6 points per game pace with a 36-point effort, his season high in leading Michigan over Wisconsin.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Florida used a freeze and Gene Shy's 30 points to upset Kentucky 75-65; Jerry Jenkins sank 25 points to lead Mississippi State over Tennessee 62-58, and Leon Johnson's 25-footer at the buzzer gave Centenary a 79-78 victory over Houston Baptist.

Also, Austin Peay State University got 38 points from James "Fly" Williams and beat Middle Tennessee State 91-66; Leon Benbow, with 22 points, led Jacksonville over Cincinnati 81-66; Donald Smith tossed in 27 points to lead Dayton past Miami of Ohio 79-74, and Sam McCants pumped in 29 points in Oral Roberts' 102-81 victory over Southern Illinois.

Any day now you'll be hearing from assorted spring training camps that the pitchers are ahead of the hitters. For the time being, though, the pitchers are trying to catch up with the team doctors.

The chief casualties are Nelson Briles of the Kansas City Royals, Craig Skok of the Boston Red Sox and a pair of San Francisco Giant rookies — Butch Metzger and John D'Acquisto. Briles is limping noticeably from a knee injury, Skok has a tender elbow while Metzger and D'Acquisto are down with the flu.

Most of the hitters haven't reported yet but third baseman Sal Bando of the world champion Oakland A's probably wishes he was swinging against Nolan Ryan rather than Uncle Sam. The good Bando news is that he recently won a $100,000 contract arbitration against owner Charles O. Finley. The bad Bando news is that he's stuck in Oakland while the Internal Revenue Service audits his income tax.

Briles, obtained by the Royals from Pittsburgh during the winter and tabbed as a regular KC starter, said he dislocated his left knee last week while working out in a Pittsburgh gym.

Skok, a left-hander who saw some action with the Red Sox last season, became the first Boston casualty when he developed tenderness in his pitching elbow and did not throw.

The flu bug had San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox worried. He said he was trying to isolate the stricken players to prevent the virus from spreading.

The list of ailing included Texas Manager Billy Martin. Martin, believed to be suffering from a kidney infection, flew to Washington for an examination by team physician Dr. George Resta. He was due back at the Rangers' Pompano Beach, Fla., camp today.

The list of those with injured pocketbooks grew with the addition of shortstops Tim Lincecum of the Montreal Expos and Marty Perez of the Atlanta Braves and Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas, all of whom lost arbitration cases.

The designated hitter may be in the news today with an expected announcement from the National League that its teams will be allowed to use the DH during road exhibition games against American League clubs.

Momentum. Dayton kept it. Cincinnati lost it. And the race down college basketball's backstretch for a post-season tournament berth tightens.

Both clubs are hoping for tourney invitations this week. While Dayton improved its chances Monday night with a fourth straight victory, Cincinnati dropped its second straight.

"I don't know why we talk tournament when we aren't playing well," said Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett after an 81-66 loss to Jacksonville. The Bearcats, now 18-7, host ninth-ranked Marquette Saturday in the season finale.

Dayton, 17-7, staved off upset-minded Miami of Ohio 79-74.

In other action, Ohio State ended its eight-game losing streak with a 72-69 overtime triumph over Northwestern. Hiram stayed unbeaten in conference action with an 81-68 victory over John Carroll and West Virginia State dumped Wilberforce 91-80.

Dayton, with home games against Northern Michigan and Notre Dame left on its schedule, needed some last-minute heroics from Mike Sylvester and Johnny Davis.

Miami charged back from an eight-point deficit to edge within one point, 75-74, with 13 seconds left. But the Flyers iced it on Sylvester's two freethrows and a steal and layup by Davis near the buzzer.

Little Tigers Win Tournament Tilt

Circleville's eighth grade cagers gained a 37-36 overtime win over Hillsboro in the opening round of the Wilmington Junior High tournament Monday at Wilmington High School.

The little Tigers, 11-3, will go against undefeated Wilmington 7:30 p.m. Friday in the semi finals.

Finley Faces Damage Suit By Andrews

BOSTON (AP) — The Herald American says that veteran infielder Mike Andrews plans to sue Oakland owner Charlie Finley for $1 million and the A's team physician, Dr. Charles Hudson, for half that amount for damaging Andrews' ability to earn a livelihood.

The story was reported by baseball writer Bill Liston from the Boston Red Sox' training camp on a "learned exclusively basis" in Tuesday's editions.

Andrews, who lives in West Peabody, Mass., could not be reached for comment.

Andrews 30, who helped the Red Sox to the American League pennant as a rookie in 1967, committed two errors as a substitute second baseman for the Athletics in an extra-inning loss to the New York Mets in the second game of the World Series last fall.

Finley and the A's attempted to put Andrews on the disabled list because of an alleged shoulder injury after the game, but were denied by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Finley later was fined by Kuhn for conduct detrimental to baseball.

The Herald American said that Andrews has "tried vainly during the off-season to get a job with a major league club."

"As a result," the story says, "it's been learned that Andrews has retained a Boston law firm which will handle his damage suits against the controversial Finley and also against Dr. Hudson."

USC Makes Top 10 Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If it weren't for its crosstown rival, Southern California would be the best college basketball team in Los Angeles.

But, although USC has played second fiddle for most of the past 10 years to UCLA, the nation's basketball virtuoso, the Trojans are on the rise and have cracked the Top Ten in the Associated Press College Basketball Poll.

Two weeks ago USC was ranked No. 13 to UCLA's No. 1.

A week ago, when UCLA made the headlines by losing consecutive games to Oregon State and Oregon, dropping to No. 3 in the rankings, USC beat both Oregon schools and crept to a No. 12 ranking.

In today's AP Poll the Bruins have clung to their No. 3 spot after convincing victories over Washington State and Washington, while the Trojans moved into the No. 10 spot after whipping Washington 79-64 and Washington State 86-59.

USC has won six straight games since suffering a 65-54 loss to UCLA Feb. 2 on the Bruins' home court.

Both schools have 9-2 records in the Pac-8 Conference and take turns playing California and Stanford this weekend as tune-ups for their March 9 battle at USC's Sports Arena.

Barring an upset this weekend, the March 9th game — the last one in the regular season for both UCLA and USC — will determine the PAC-8's representative in the NCAA Tournament.

The only way UCLA can make it to the NAAs and try for its 10th title in 11 years is to finish first in the Pac-8.

North Carolina State, 22-1 with 29 first-place votes, stood atop the rankings for the second week in a row after knocking off Duke 113-87 and slipping by Clemson 80-75.

Notre Dame, 22-1, marked No. 1 on 15 ballots, slugged Western Michigan 85-68 and West Virginia 108-80 and ranks second.

UCLA, 20-3, was the only other school to receive first place votes, winding up with four.

The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records through games of last Saturday, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — They're having to break out a new mold for the sports superstar, and throw away all the old ones.

O.J. Simpson Sees Strike As Likely

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — It may look silly for a $150,000-a-year football player to be carrying around a picket sign but it's quite probable this year, says O.J. Simpson, and the public will be all for it.

"I think there's a good chance of a strike in the National Football League," the ball-carrying star of the Buffalo Bills said Monday. "The players are ready for some changes."

Simpson, a contender in the $123,000 Superstar finals here, said the greatest objections are to the so-called Rozelle rule requiring compensation for the victimized club when an athlete plays out his option and signs with another team.

"The players should be given greater freedom," he added. "I think we may be nearing a point that a player may be completely freed at the end of his contract, with no option clauses."

The 6-foot-2, 214-pound former Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California who set a season rushing record last year with 2,003 yards, said he is not a member of the NFL Players Association but is in full agreement with the group's aims.

The rushing star spiked the theory that the public might resent a players' strike.

"I don't think so at all," he insisted. "Our life styles have changed and people have a more realistic concept of what and who we are. If athletes can be asked not to cross a picket line when a worker or some union strikes, why shouldn't the athletes be allowed to enjoy the same privilege?"

He also denied that the public is getting disenchanted with escalating sports salaries.

"All the fan cares about is seeing a good game," he said. "He doesn't give a darn what kind of salaries we are making."

Simpson said he always had admired and supported Commissioner Pete Rozelle, but feels the cards are generally stacked against individuals.

NFL Ponders Negotiation With Players

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — National Football League owners, with the 1975 Super Bowl site decided and the list of possible expansion cities cut to five, were to take a hard look today at upcoming negotiations with the Players Association.

The 26 owners opened their winter meeting Monday by reaffirming New Orleans as the site for Super Bowl IX, either in the Louisiana Superdome under construction or at Tulane Stadium, and by cutting the 24-city list of possible expansion cities to Honolulu, Memphis, Phoenix, Seattle and Tampa.

The owners will meet again in April in New York to decide whether to expand in 1975 and if so, how many franchises to let in.

If a decision is made to expand only two cities are expected to get the nod.

The NFL's management council, headed by John Thompson, was to brief owners today on preparations for a March 16 meeting with player representatives on a contract to replace the expired four-year pact.

The results of an NFL study of artificial playing surfaces, expected to be one of the main issues in the negotiations, were also to be presented.

Players have asked for a ban against future installation of such turfs because they cause injuries.

Other key issues with the players are expected to involve pay for preseason games, freedom to play out options and change teams without penalties on teams hiring them, insurance, the pension plan and Commissioner Pete Rozelle's authority on disciplinary matters.

The players have threatened to strike if their demands aren't met.

Rozelle said the owners decided not to switch the site of the Jan. 12, 1975 Super Bowl from New Orleans because "we feel optimistic about it (Superdome) being ready."

Indiana Beats Michigan State

By JOE MOOSHIL

AP Sports Writer

Indiana's Hoosiers are only one game away from clinching at least a tie for their second straight Big Ten basketball title, but the going gets rough down the stretch.

The Hoosiers got a taste of how tough it might be Monday night when they staggered to a 91-85 victory over Michigan State after nearly blowing a 15-point lead in the final minutes.

While Indiana was slugging its way past Michigan State, Michigan kept alive its hopes with a 79-75 victory at Wisconsin. Ohio State came to life and scored a 72-69 overtime victory at Northwestern, and Minnesota sent Illinois back to its losing ways with a 72-52 decision.

Readyforshoes Wins Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Readyforshoes romped to a wire-to-wire victory Monday, claiming the featured race at Latonia by a length.

The winner went the six furlongs in 1:13 4-5. The triumph returned $3.60, $3.00 and $3.20. Tiz Liz Lou paid $4.80 and $6.60 for place, and WaPac showed at $6.60.

The 4-6 combination of Cosmic Traffic and Ruddin Ruddin returned $10.80 in the daily double.

A crowd of 3,332 wagered $378,072.

Squires Down Tams, 115-99

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To many it seemed George Carter was just a throw-in when he came to Virginia Squires last summer in the American Basketball Association deal in which the Squires dealt Julius Erving to the New York Nets for a reported million dollars.

But with George Gervin's departure for the San Antonio Spurs, the 6-foot-5 veteran forward has become the Squires' top scorer as well as a steady rebounder and defensive player.

Carter, averaging 19 points a game, fired in 31 Monday night as Virginia downed the Memphis Tams 115-99 in the only game played in either the ABA or the National Basketball Association.

Injunction Issued

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Court Judge James Mayer issued a preliminary injunction Monday limiting to six the number of pickets at each entrance of two struck Tappan Co. plants here.

The Independent Stove Workers Union went on strike Feb. 13 after rejecting a proposed three-year contract. The walkout idled some 800 workers at the two plants.

USC Makes Top 10 Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If it weren't for its crosstown rival, Southern California would be the best college basketball team in Los Angeles.

But, although USC has played second fiddle for most of the past 10 years to UCLA, the nation's basketball virtuoso, the Trojans are on the rise and have cracked the Top Ten in the Associated Press College Basketball Poll.

Two weeks ago USC was ranked No. 13 to UCLA's No. 1.

A week ago, when UCLA made the headlines by losing consecutive games to Oregon State and Oregon, dropping to No. 3 in the rankings, USC beat both Oregon schools and crept to a No. 12 ranking.

In today's AP Poll the Bruins have clung to their No. 3 spot after convincing victories over Washington State and Washington, while the Trojans moved into the No. 10 spot after whipping Washington 79-64 and Washington State 86-59.

USC has won six straight games since suffering a 65-54 loss to UCLA Feb. 2 on the Bruins' home court.

Both schools have 9-2 records in the Pac-8 Conference and take turns playing California and Stanford this weekend as tune-ups for their March 9 battle at USC's Sports Arena.

Barring an upset this weekend, the March 9th game — the last one in the regular season for both UCLA and USC — will determine the PAC-8's representative in the NCAA Tournament. The only way UCLA can make it to the NAAs and try for its 10th title in 11 years is to finish first in the Pac-8.

North Carolina State, 22-1 with 29 first-place votes, stood atop the rankings for the second week in a row after knocking off Duke 113-87 and slipping by Clemson 80-75.

Notre Dame, 22-1, marked No. 1 on 15 ballots, slugged Western Michigan 85-68 and West Virginia 108-80 and ranks second.

UCLA, 20-3, was the only other school to receive first place votes, winding up with four.

The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records through games of last Saturday, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Clay Kirby No Longer 'The Kid'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — At 25,
his hair shows streaks of gray. But that's not the biggest reason Cincinnati
Reds' newcomer Clay Kirby has lost his nickname "The Kid."
"I've settled down," said
Kirby Monday during a weathershortened workout.
"It isn't my age that's matured me," said one of the newest members of the defending Western Division champs of the National League.
"It's all those innings pitched and all those close games," he said.
The winningest pitcher in the San Diego Padres' short history, Kirby came to the Reds in an off-season trade for outfielder Bobby Tolan.
He's already logged more than 400 innings in the big leagues and 52 victories.
Heading into his sixth big league season, Kirby is being counted on to solidify Cincinnati pitching.
"I'll be very surprised if he doesn't win at least 15 games for us," said Reds' Manager
George "Sparky" Anderson.
It won't be the first time
Kirby and Anderson were on the same team.

Anderson was managing the St. Louis Cardinals' St.
Petersburg, Fla., farm team when Kirby was assigned to the club.
Anderson vividly recalls
that first meeting.
"Kirby was so cocky, just like most kids right out of high school. The first time I started him was in a doubleheader at Ft.
Lauderdale. He had a no-hitter going until the seventh inning. Then, some guy got a hit off him.
"You'd think the world had come to an end. He was just storming around on the mound.
"I went out there and asked him what was wrong. 'They got a hit off me,' fumed
Kirby.
"I told him they'd get a lot more before he was through and took him out," said
Anderson.
Kirby was involved in a more famous no-hit bid early in his major league career.
He was lifted for a pinchhitter
by San Diego Manager
Preston Gomez after eight innings of no-hit ball.
Kirby has set a goal of 20

victories this year "if I stay healthy."
He has another goal too. "I want to win a game in the World Series," he said.

TV Board Changes Original Plans For Commencement Date

The Teays Valley Board of Education made appropriate modifications on the original plans for the spring commencement and baccalaureate ceremonies for graduating seniors. At the regular meeting of the board Monday evening, the plan to have the two ceremonies on separate dates was discussed in full.

Baccalaureate exercises had been scheduled for May 19 and commencement for May 26, but due to the date of the junior-senior prom falling on May 18 and the inconvenience of the out of town guests, the board felt it wise to return to the format followed the past two years. Both ceremonies will be held on May 26, however, they shall remain two separate exercises. The baccalaureate ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. on that date and commencement at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Edith Brown was employed to complete the current school year in the place of Mrs. Maureen Neff whose resignation was accepted at the meeting. Mrs. Neff resigned her position as fifth grade teacher at Ashville Elementary school to become effective March 1. Mrs. Brown has been substituting in the district recently and has had several years experience in the Groveport school system.

Resignations were also accepted from Mrs. Oeida Mertins as part-time custodian and Miss Vivian Sheets as junior high secretary. Mrs. Mertins's resignation is effective Feb. 15 and Miss Sheet's, March 29.

The board approved the substitute teacher list No. 12 as submitted by the county superintendent's office.

Professional workshops as follows were approved: Mrs. Judith Roush to attend the State Consumer Education Conference in Columbus on March 15; Fred Brobst to serve on the North-central Evaluation Team at Watkins Memorial High School April 8-10; Orlan Cooper and local superintendent Benis Lutz and any of the board members to attend the Spring Academy in Columbus March 1-2.

The purchase of a new high pressure washer for the vocational agriculture department was authorized. The purchase will come under the Vocational Education Act of 1963 in which 50 per cent of the price will be reimbursed by federal money.

Bids were taken on an old high pressure washer. The highest bidder was Kenneth Reigel who bought the washer for $112.

Discussions were held by the board on several matters at hand including the water line at Walnut School. Discussion was also held on the Eastland Joint Vocational School calendar for the 1974-75 school year.

A calendar for next year was adopted by the board to coincide with both the vocational school and the county calendar as closely as possible. One major difference between the county calendar and the Teays Valley adoption is the time off for Pumpkin Show. Teays Valley will dismiss only one day for the festival and thus get out one day sooner in the spring. Everything else remained the same as the proposed county calendar.

The whole realm of personal leave, sick leave and severance pay was discussed without any action being taken by the board. Implications of recent legislation were considered.

Specifications for a language lab which has been sent to the bidders was discussed. Bids will be considered at the March meeting of the board.

A lengthy discussion was held on the bond issue which will appear on the November ballot and the potential attendance figures at the polls. A work session was scheduled for Monday night for board members and administrators to continue the discussion of the bond issue.

The curriculum for next year was considered and some of the modifications which may be made with the high school. The board may ask for an additional unit of vocational agriculture. If the additional unit is approved by the state and enough enrollment interest is shown on the part of the students, the program will be funded through state money.

A joint meeting of all the school boards in the Eastland Joint Vocational School District will be held on March 28. The meeting is planned as a social event for board members, administrators and their spouses.

Final action by the board was a resolution authorizing the attendance and the expenses for the National School Boards Association convention to be held in Houston, Texas April 6-9. The authorization will allow Teays Valley board members and central office administrators to attend the meeting.

State's Gasoline Outlook Confused

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio energy officials seem to have conflicting ideas on the state's energy situation for next month.

Some are predicting a shortage of gasoline and readying a rationing program, while others don't anticipate any fuel problems.

Harry G. Foster, Ohio's energy management coordinator said he doesn't see any particular change in the state's March fuel allocation.

"Fuel oil will be in less demand because March isn't as cold as February. People will probably move around more, so gasoline will probably be in greater demand," Foster said.

Many refiners have already switched production from heating oil to gasoline, he added.

But Peter Rochman of the state's energy council believes March's allocation will be less than what will be needed.

"If we are going to get hit we'll feel it in March," Kochman said.

Kochman said the state task force is working out a rationing program in case of a shortage.

Another state official, Edmund Turk, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said he doesn't think Ohio will face the long gasoline lines that plague other states.

"Odd-even rationing programs are ridiculous. It's like saying there's enough gas, just wait in line for it," Turk told reporters at a Cleveland news conference.

Meanwhile, Shell Oil Co. and Continental Oil Co. have diverted stock from Ohio to meet a Federal Energy Office request, Foster said.

A Shell spokesman in northern Ohio has predicted some of his 250 stations may be forced to close this week because of the cut.

Lake Front Lines, which serves Lake, Geauga and Ashtabula counties, shut down this week because it cannot get diesel fuel, a company spokesman said.

William Dawes, the busline's assistant general manager, said his supplier, Mobil Oil Corp., said the busline had used up its February allocation and would be unable to get further diesel fuel until after March 1.

He said the busline has requested an emergency allocation from PUCO, but that the commission said it couldn't take action until after March 1 either.

State officials are anticipating that the Federal Energy Office will withdraw its order for a 2 per cent cut in Ohio's gasoline allocation, and expect to receive their total allocation for March.

Turk said the reduction was based on erroneous figures, but the federal office has remained silent on the issue.

Law School Discrimination Case Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a case that could affect a wide range of "affirmative action" programs, the Supreme Court is being asked to decide whether law schools may consider race in deciding which students to admit.

Scheduled for argument today before the high court is the appeal of a Seattle youth, Marco DeFunis, who was denied admission to the University of Washington while 38 minority group members were accepted although they had lower scores on admissions tests.

The Washington Supreme Court upheld the university's policy of preference for minorities on grounds it served an overriding state interest — increasing the number of minority group lawyers.

DeFunis, who had been admitted after a lower court struck down the university policy, has remained in law school under a stay granted by Justice William O. Douglas. He is scheduled to graduate in June.

His case has attracted the attention of law schools, labor organizations, civil rights groups and others who have filed more than a score of friend of the court briefs.

The law schools contend that they do not in any event rely wholly on test scores in their admissions policies, but take into account a number of factors designed among other things to produce a diverse student body.

allocation will be less than what will be needed.

Sammy Davis Jr. Hospitalized

MIAMI (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. was listed in satisfactory condition today in a Miami hospital with what was diagnosed as "a mild digestive disorder."

Doctors at Mt. Sinai Hospital said Davis was undergoing further tests and "would probably remain in the hospital for some time."

Earlier, a spokesman had said that the entertainer would be released after a day or two.

Davis, 48, was taken to the hospital Monday after experiencing chest pains before appearing as a guest on the Phil Donahue Show, scheduled to be taped at a local television station.

Bean Prices Bring End To Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beans are so expensive even the Agriculture Department says it can't afford to donate any to poor people and schools.

Further, according to USDA bean experts, the price crunch probably will worsen before new harvests are ready later this year. But even after the harvest the general momentum of food prices may keep beans much higher than a year or so ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics tells this bean story: A year ago a one-pound bag sold in retail stores for 25.7 cents on the average. By January this year beans were 57.2 cents a bag.

Last week the Agriculture Department, for the first time in recent memory, rejected all offers by vendors to sell dry beans to the government for donation to various food program operations.

Farmers in Michigan, California, Idaho, North Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado and other bean areas produced a smaller crop last year, about 16.8 million 100-lb. bags, compared with 18.1 million in 1972.

Consumers turned to more beans last year as food prices generally climbed sharply, but export sales to foreign countries also added their toll.

As a result of the bean drain, farm prices for what reserves remain have jumped, from slightly more than 10 cents a pound a year ago to 32.5 cents in January.

Drug Use Curbs Antisocial Behavior By Prison Inmates

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—A treatment that would cure the antisocial behavior of psychopathic prison inmates is being explored by a team of Ohio State University Scientists.

The researchers reported their findings Monday to the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting here.

The scientists said that the antisocial behavior disappeared when the prisoners were taking a stimulating drug, called Tofranil.

The research results indicate the treatment would be effective for as much as one-eighth of the nation's prison population, even the most troublesome.

But one of the scientists, Dr. Lewis Lindner, a psychiatrist, is concerned that the drug might be abused by some penologists.

"In my opinion the prisoner should have the right to refuse treatment," Lindner said.

"This question hasn't been adjudicated in the courts but cases recently are tending toward this."

The scientists admitted that the use of the drug raises serious moral and legal questions about controlling inmate behavior with drugs and forcing prisoners to take the drug.

According to Lindner, the inmates whose behavior improved while taking the drug, are hyperactive, victims of a neurological disorder.

The psychiatrist called them "simple sociopaths," and said their antisocial behavior is similar to that of hyperactive children.

Drugs similar to Tofranil have been used for several years to treat hyperactive children, but the programs are encountering opposition. Opponents contend that the children are being adversely affected.

The tests were taken at the medium security prison in Chillicothe, Ohio. Personality tests, prison records, psychiatric interviews and other tests were used to recruit 41 psychopathic prisoners into the six-month study.

Coal Miners Stay Home

WELCH, W.Va. (AP) — A strike by thousands of coal miners who say they can't get enough gasoline to commute to work continued Monday, shutting down dozens of operations across southern West Virginia.

Some 4,000 miners were engaged in the work stoppage, according to a spokesman for the United Mine Workers. But Steve Young, president of the West Virginia Coal Association, said about 9,000 men were off the job.

In an effort to alleviate the fuel squeeze, gasoline companies began distributing 500,000 gallons of gas to the area under a special allocation ordered Sunday by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.

Richard Carter of Beckley, president of United Mine Workers District 29 which covers the area, said the stay-at-home movement was primarily centered in McDowell and Mercer Counties at the state's southern tip. All mines except one in McDowell County were reported closed by Monday afternoon.

There were some unconfirmed reports of picketing, he said, adding that the work stoppage was primarily on an individual basis, "due to the energy crisis."

Teays Valley will dismiss only one day for the festival and thus get out one day sooner in the spring. Everything else remained the same as the proposed county calendar.

The whole realm of personal leave, sick leave and severance pay was discussed without any action being taken by the board. Implications of recent legislation were considered.

Specifications for a language lab which has been sent to the bidders was discussed. Bids will be considered at the March meeting of the board.

A lengthy discussion was held on the bond issue which will appear on the November ballot and the potential attendance figures at the polls. A work session was scheduled for Monday night for board members and administrators to continue the discussion of the bond issue.

The curriculum for next year was considered and some of the modifications which may be made with the high school. The board may ask for an additional unit of vocational agriculture. If the additional unit is approved by the state and enough enrollment interest is shown on the part of the students, the program will be funded through state money.

A joint meeting of all the school boards in the Eastland Joint Vocational School District will be held on March 28. The meeting is planned as a social event for board members, administrators and their spouses.

Final action by the board was a resolution authorizing the attendance and the expenses for the National School Boards Association convention to be held in Houston, Texas April 6-9. The authorization will allow Teays Valley board members and central office administrators to attend the meeting.

Bean Prices Bring End To Donations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Beans are so expensive even the Agriculture Department says it can't afford to donate any to poor people and schools.

Further, according to USDA bean experts, the price crunch probably will worsen before new harvests are ready later this year. But even after the harvest the general momentum of food prices may keep beans much higher than a year or so ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics tells this bean story: A year ago a one-pound bag sold in retail stores for 25.7 cents on the average. By January this year beans were 57.2 cents a bag.

Last week the Agriculture Department, for the first time in recent memory, rejected all offers by vendors to sell dry beans to the government for donation to various food program operations.

Farmers in Michigan, California, Idaho, North Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado and other bean areas produced a smaller crop last year, about 16.8 million 100-lb. bags, compared with 18.1 million in 1972.

Consumers turned to more beans last year as food prices generally climbed sharply, but export sales to foreign countries also added their toll.

As a result of the bean drain, farm prices for what reserves remain have jumped, from slightly more than 10 cents a pound a year ago to 32.5 cents in January.

Drug Use Curbs Antisocial Behavior By Prison Inmates

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—A treatment that would cure the antisocial behavior of psychopathic prison inmates is being explored by a team of Ohio State University Scientists.

The researchers reported their findings Monday to the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting here.

The scientists said that the antisocial behavior disappeared when the prisoners were taking a stimulating drug, called Tofranil.

The research results indicate the treatment would be effective for as much as one-eighth of the nation's prison population, even the most troublesome.

But one of the scientists, Dr. Lewis Lindner, a psychiatrist, is concerned that the drug might be abused by some penologists.

"In my opinion the prisoner should have the right to refuse treatment," Lindner said.

"This question hasn't been adjudicated in the courts but cases recently are tending toward this."

The scientists admitted that the use of the drug raises serious moral and legal questions about controlling inmate behavior with drugs and forcing prisoners to take the drug.

According to Lindner, the inmates whose behavior improved while taking the drug, are hyperactive, victims of a neurological disorder.

The psychiatrist called them "simple sociopaths," and said their antisocial behavior is similar to that of hyperactive children.

Drugs similar to Tofranil have been used for several years to treat hyperactive children, but the programs are encountering opposition. Opponents contend that the children are being adversely affected.

The tests were taken at the medium security prison in Chillicothe, Ohio. Personality tests, prison records, psychiatric interviews and other tests were used to recruit 41 psychopathic prisoners into the six-month study.

State's Gasoline Outlook Confused

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio energy officials seem to have conflicting ideas on the state's energy situation for next month.

Some are predicting a shortage of gasoline and readying a rationing program, while others don't anticipate any fuel problems.

Harry G. Foster, Ohio's energy management coordinator said he doesn't see any particular change in the state's March fuel allocation.

"Fuel oil will be in less demand because March isn't as cold as February. People will probably move around more, so gasoline will probably be in greater demand," Foster said.

Many refiners have already switched production from heating oil to gasoline, he added.

But Peter Rochman of the state's energy council believes March's allocation will be less than what will be needed.

"If we are going to get hit we'll feel it in March," Kochman said.

Kochman said the state task force is working out a rationing program in case of a shortage.

Another state official, Edmund Turk, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said he doesn't think Ohio will face the long gasoline lines that plague other states.

"Odd-even rationing programs are ridiculous. It's like saying there's enough gas, just wait in line for it," Turk told reporters at a Cleveland news conference.

Meanwhile, Shell Oil Co. and Continental Oil Co. have diverted stock from Ohio to meet a Federal Energy Office request, Foster said.

A Shell spokesman in northern Ohio has predicted some of his 250 stations may be forced to close this week because of the cut.

Lake Front Lines, which serves Lake, Geauga and Ashtabula counties, shut down this week because it cannot get diesel fuel, a company spokesman said.

William Dawes, the busline's assistant general manager, said his supplier, Mobil Oil Corp., said the busline had used up its February allocation and would be unable to get further diesel fuel until after March 1.

He said the busline has requested an emergency allocation from PUCO, but that the commission said it couldn't take action until after March 1 either.

State officials are anticipating that the Federal Energy Office will withdraw its order for a 2 per cent cut in Ohio's gasoline allocation, and expect to receive their total allocation for March.

Turk said the reduction was based on erroneous figures, but the federal office has remained silent on the issue.

Sammy Davis Jr. Hospitalized

MIAMI (AP)—Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. was listed in satisfactory condition today in a Miami hospital with what was diagnosed as "a mild digestive system disorder."

Doctors at Mt. Sinai Hospital said Davis was undergoing further tests and "would probably remain in the hospital for some time."

Earlier, a spokesman had said that the entertainer would be released after a day or two.

Davis, 48, was taken to the hospital Monday after experiencing chest pains before appearing as a guest on the Phil Donahue Show, scheduled to be taped at a local television station.

Law School Discrimination Case Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a case that could affect a wide range of "affirmative action" programs, the Supreme Court is being asked to decide whether law schools may consider race in deciding which students to admit.

Scheduled for argument today before the high court is the appeal of a Seattle youth, Marco DeFunis, who was denied admission to the University of Washington while 38 minority group members were accepted although they had lower scores on admissions tests.

The Washington Supreme Court upheld the university's policy of preference for minorities on grounds it served an overriding state interest — increasing the number of minority group lawyers.

DeFunis, who had been admitted after a lower court struck down the university policy, has remained in law school under a stay granted by Justice William O. Douglas. He is scheduled to graduate in June.

His case has attracted the attention of law schools, labor organizations, civil rights groups and others who have filed more than a score of friend of the court briefs.

The law schools contend that they do not in any event rely wholly on test scores in their admissions policies, but take into account a number of factors designed among other things to produce a diverse student body.
